SUMMARY JUDGMENT GRANTED

Superior Court, Bergen County

Plaintiff claimed injury when her spin bike toppled while she attended as exercise class at the co-defendant's gym. Our client designed and manufactured the spin bike. Through work with a biomechanical engineer, Scott Haworth demonstrated that the accident could only have occurred if the co-defendant failed to replace a pin holding the spin bike's handlebars in place when it performed routine maintenance. Further, the weight distribution of the spin bike was such that the accident could not have occurred as plaintiff claimed. Plaintiff and co-defendant lacked experts to contradict our analysis and summary judgment was granted.
