Greg Ziegler and Rebecca Alcantar secure early dismissal for electrical engineering firm in refinery workplace double amputation case

AUGUST 10, 2017

An electrical engineering firm sued for defective design was voluntarily dismissed from a multi-million dollar, multi-party catastrophic workplace injury case arising out of an accident resulting in a refinery construction worker suffering double amputation. Greg Ziegler and Rebecca Alcantar immediately and aggressively pursued discovery, motions to compel, and motions for summary judgment that eventually resulted in the Plaintiffs voluntarily dismissing the electrical engineering firm from the lawsuit, thereby saving the engineering firm hundreds of thousands of dollars in future legal fees.
